

TRAVEL TOUCHSTONES

TRANSFORMATIVE TRAVEL THROUGH CREATIVE JOURNAL WRITING

Have you considered spinning memories into stories, essays, or memoirs?
Have you captured a trip in journal entries & been disappointed by the results?
Have you traveled as tourist, pilgrim, adventurer, learner, intentional sojourner?
Have you yearned for adventures, but not known how to make them happen?

This workshop will build writing skills and insight into intentional travel!

-- Bring paper (your journal) and pen. No travel experience or writing experience required. --

Workshop Facilitator, RHONDA WILEY-JONES, M.Ed.

May 20, 1:00-4:00 p.m., 18 Antelope Trail, Kerrville, TX

WORKSHOP TAKE-AWAYS

1. Share adventures or misadventures with others in a fun atmosphere.
2. Reflect how to travel more purposefully, independently, and intentionally.
3. Write three times to gain insight & clarity, practice observation skills, and discover yourself.
4. Consider types of travel (pilgrims are not tourists) to match writing tools and supplies.
5. Develop observation skills; build writing skills using the senses; and mix fiction with fact.
6. Select journaling methods to match your travel circumstances and/or writing style.
7. Stimulate imagination with tips, ideas, and suggestions shared by the group.
8. Make new friends and get to know old ones in new ways.
